County school bond issue $20M

See related chart, page 10A
BY MARY G. SEILEY

Hancock County school officials have set a May 13 referendum on a $20 million general obligation bond issue.

Details of the school construction and renovation program were hammered out in a Monday night meeting, as officials took pains to emphasize how overcrowded and inadequate the existing school system has become.

With 1,100 more students in county schools now than five years ago, officials are bracing for more dramatic population growth in the next five years.

If the public okays the bond issue, plans call for construction of a new elementary school in the Kiln area, and a new middle school near Hancock High School. Extensive renovations are planned for the county's three existing elementary schools as well.

Aside from construction dollars, the bond issue includes costs of computers in all classrooms, additional school buses and a new transportation maintenance facility.

Officials said money to support the extra facilities — including more salaries, extra utilities and maintenance — should easily flow from the increasing tax base the county is experiencing.

When the Wellman Industries plant is completed, it will generate some $430,000 in county school taxes, School Superintendent Terry Randolph said, for example.

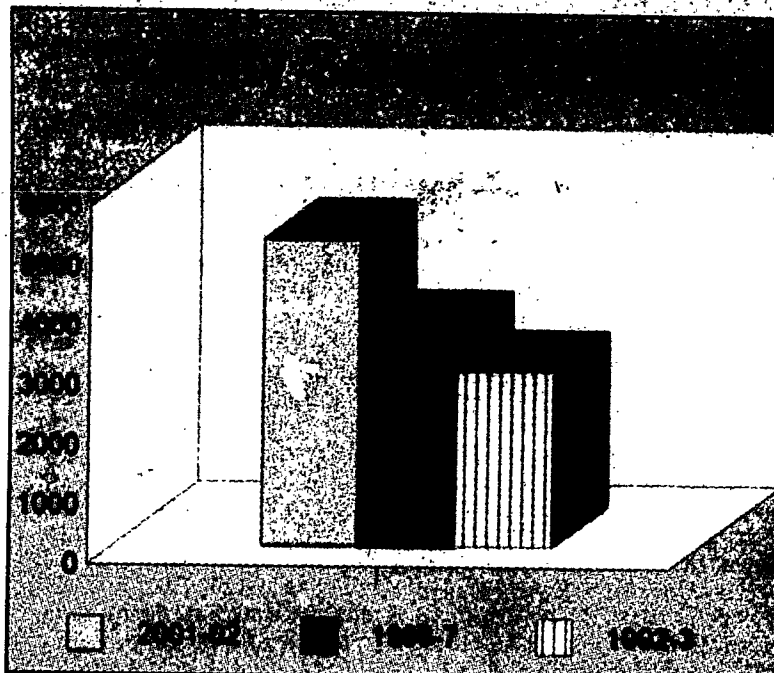

Other tax base growth and student population growth are expected from expansion of other industries at Port Bienville and the addition of one or two more casinos. Casino World is proposing a complex in Hancock County, while Circus Circus plans an adjacent complex in Harrison County.

Randolph said while Circus Circus won't pay county school taxes in Hancock, many of its employees are likely to live in Hancock County, adding students to the system. If the industrial and gaming developments actually occur, officials project countywide school enrollment to increase from 3,600 students this year to 5,136 in five years.

If none of the development occurs, school officials still project an additional 900 students in the system over the next five years.

Bay approves bond

BY BETSY GAGNET

The Bay St. Louis City Council passed a resolution Tuesday night approving the sale of bonds for the $5.5 million revenue bond issue at a rate of 5.53 percent.

The sale must now be approved by the Mississippi Development Bank.

The money from the bond issue will be used for improvements to the sewer, water and gas systems in the city.

"The bulk is sewer, some water, some gas," said Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre.

In other matters, the council has given final plat ap-

Teen curfew in county possible

BY ED LEPOMA

Roving bands of teens, rising crime and vandalism of cemeteries were subjects of lengthy discussion at Tuesday's Hancock County Board of Supervisors' regular monthly meeting.

In a capsule, supervisors asked the board attorney to look into whether they can impose a countywide curfew to curb teen crime and vandalism.

The county will begin investigating a "No Trespassing" sign from dusk until dawn at county-run cemeteries, and look into lighting some cemeteries after dark. Owners of privately-owned cemeteries in rural areas of the county can also ask the county to post the signs.

And, supervisors agreed for sheriff's deputies to maintain more of a presence in the business section of Diamondhead after businessmen agreed to provide a free sub-station and utilities.

SSC in running for laser project

BY ED LEPOMA

NASA's Stennis Space Center is in the running for another large project that could pump millions more into the economy and employ hundreds.

Hancock County supervisors Tuesday concurred in a resolution passed earlier by the Port and Harbor Commission to support moves underway to locate the space-based laser project at Stennis.

According to Liz Mavar, press secretary to Mississippi Sen. Trent Lott, the senate majority leader is working hard to get the project for Stennis.

Mavar said the program would involve an expenditure of $300 million to $500 million in three to five years, and over the course of its development, expenditures could top $1.5 billion.

"The project would create about 700 highly skilled jobs," said Mavar.

Project engineers, mechanical and structural engineers, computer technicians, data system specialists and other technical and engineering jobs are among positions that would need to be filled, she said.

According to Mavar, three other sites are under consideration, Huntsville, Ala., and NASA's Cape Kennedy and Cape Canaveral in Florida.

According to Lott, "The space-based laser project offers the potential for a high leverage system to deal with and intercept ballistic missiles from virtually all ranges."

Time needed for site

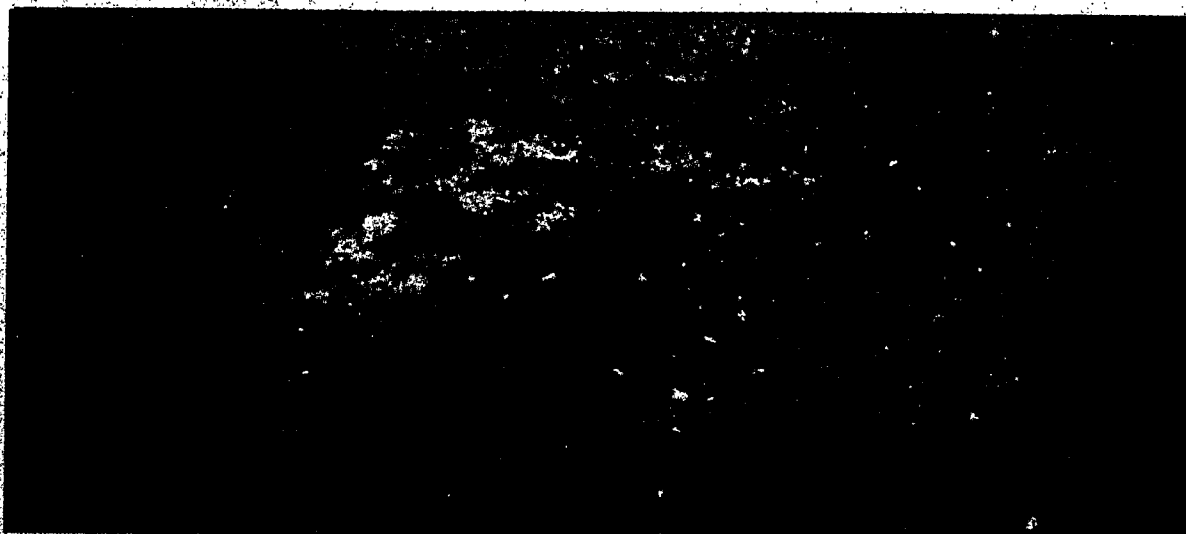

BY ED LEPOMA

Unable to legally take land in the NASA buffer zone, Hancock County Supervisors have asked for another year's extension to operate the county's only rubbish site in the rural Standard Community.

On behalf of the Board of Supervisors, President Philip Moran formally requested more time in a letter written March 10 to Jim Palmer, executive director of the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ).

In the letter, Moran explained the current dilemma.

Vandals destroy garden

This desolate patch was a thriving rose garden at North Bay Elementary School until vandals stole the flowers as well as a row of tomatoes on Tuesday night. The students were able to plant the garden through a Mississippi Power grant. One disappointed student asked the vandals, "Please bring back our roses and replant them, no questions asked." Visitation will be today, 9-11 a.m. at Bradford O'Keefe Funeral Home in Gulfport. Services will follow at 1 p.m. in Greenwood Cemetery in Slidell.

Echo cooking columnist dies

Katy McGuire Caire, whose popular "Cooking Up A Storm" column has appeared in the Sea Coast Echo for two decades, died of a heart attack last Saturday night at Gulfport Memorial Hospital. She was 80.

Caire, a native of Biloxi, who grew up in New Orleans and on the Gulf Coast, was one of the female pioneers in the male-dominated world of newspaper reporting.

Her father was a realtor, but her grandfather had been in the newspaper business, so she took a journalism course while attending Newcomb College in New Orleans, talking her way into become the college correspondent for the old New Orleans

Item-Tribune. She was one of only two women working the general assignment beat.

As a reporter, she met and married David R. McGuire, who reported for the rival New Orleans States.

She took out time to have two sons, D. William and Jack B. McGuire, but continued to write a kind of social chit-chat column for the Item. The editor decided her name, Katharine Patricia Cecilia Barrett Daly McGuire was too long, so it was shortened to Katy McGuire, although she later admitted no one had ever called her Katy before.

McGuire husband, David, went on to become the first public relations director for the city of New Orleans, then the city's Chief Administrative Officer, and Katy found herself involved more and more with entertaining and politics.

When McGuire died in 1960, Katy began a small public relations firm. She later took Ronnie Caire in as a partner, then married him. Caire was also a newspaper and advertising man and a lifelong friend of her first husband.

Our Internal Medicine Physicians Provide The Home Team Advantage

When Ed began having some mild chest pains on the golf course, he wrote it off as indigestion. When the pain didn't subside, he went to see an internal medicine physician, who ordered a series of tests. Ed's going to be fine, but he is glad to know that his specialist is nearby.

At Hancock Medical Center, our physicians work together so you don't miss important activities. Our internal medicine physicians are trained in a broad spectrum of medicine, including cardiology, pulmonary medicine, gastroenterology, neurology and many other areas. They also act as consultants with other specialists to determine the best possible health care for you.

Time goes on, oh yes it's true, but there isn't one day that we haven't thought of you.

It seems like only yesterday you were here with us each day, laughing and smiling as we went through our wonderful life.

Oh how we miss you so and wish we could see your face, but we know you're very happy in that beautiful heavenly place.

Although you're gone, you're still here for us in every way, still all our hearts—that's a place you'll always be.

Presbyterian services

The celebration of Holy Week will begin with Palm Sunday service at 11 a.m. March 23 at First Presbyterian Church in Bay St. Louis. Maundy Thursday Communion-Tenebrae Service is at 7 p.m.

This will be an adaptation of the Tenebrae service, dating from the 8th century. It is a service of worship that moves from light to darkness with the fading light symbolizing the fading loyalty of the disciples and friends of Jesus.

During the reading of the Scripture portions that appear in the liturgy, the crowd will be portrayed by the congregation.

Supply Pastor, Rev. John T. Malestein will officiate. The Resurrection of the Lord will be celebrated Easter Sunday at 11 a.m.

Teachers take to the street

BY BETSY GAGNET
Teachers from the Pass Christian School District went on a walking tour of downtown Pass Christian Monday as part of an effort to familiarize teachers and the community.

Organized by the Chamber of Commerce, the day also featured a bus tour and luncheon.

"It's an excellent opportunity to network with the community," said David Gruich, Principal of Pass Christian Middle School. "It lets the teachers see the experts in the community and the community see the experts in the schools."

The school district is celebrating its recent rating as a level four school.

The rating, based on student performance, puts Pass Christian in the top 25% of school districts in the state said Gruich.

"It's the result of great teachers teaching great students," he said.

Teachers could be seen all over the downtown area on Monday as they walked from place to place chatting with business people.

"The whole point is to get the community involved with the schools," said Denise Brown, a sixth grade teacher at the middle school. "In this day and age a child needs all the help they can get."

Drowning death ruled accidental

BY RICHARD MEEK
The drowning death of a Bay St. Louis woman has been ruled accidental, according to Police Chief Frank McNeil.

McNeil said the body of Judith Holmes, 59, was discovered in a ditch in front of her Julia Street home. Holmes' domestic employee, Robert Dardar, discovered the body when he arrived for work at about 7 a.m. Monday, McNeil said.

McNeil said Holmes was lying in the ditch on her side in about "three, four, five inches of water."

He added no foul play is suspected.

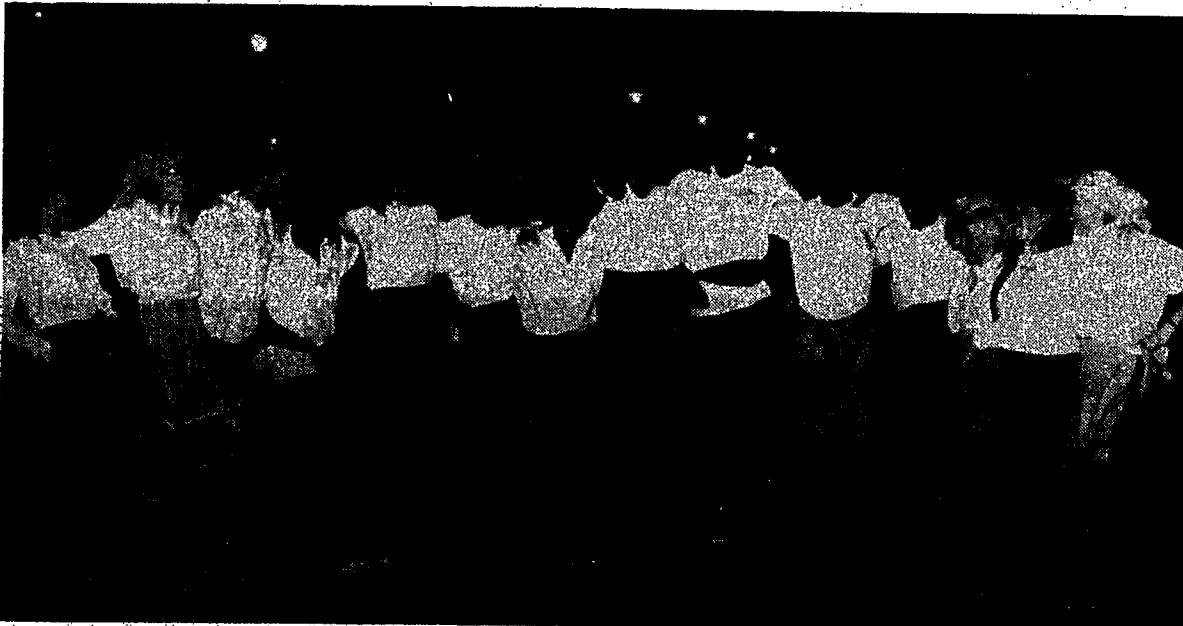

McNeil said Holmes died after 10 p.m. on Sunday.

He said it is suspected Holmes slipped into the ditch while taking out the garbage, struck her head on a culvert and drowned.

"CUEVAS" QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Today is the big day for the Bay-Waveland Garden Club's annual Spring Pilgrimage.

Activities begin at 9 a.m. at the Bay-Waveland Garden Center, 114 Leonhard Avenue for maps, brochures, etc.

The Bay homes are open in the morning and Waveland's in the afternoon.

I hope to see you at the Pilgrimage today.

Do not forget the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Business After Hours scheduled this evening from 5 to 7.

It is the grand opening of the Hancock Medical Center's Business and Education Complex and a welcome reception for Dr. Nauman Siddiqi, internal medicine specialist, new partner of Dr. Irene Koskan.

The event will be held in the new Business and Education Complex of HMC.

The new facility is located to the east of the Medical Center. Use the emergency/outpatient access road off Highway 90.

Chamber members and guests are invited to attend. I hope to see you at the Business After Hours this evening.

Volunteers are needed for Hancock County's first Christmas in April project.

The event is to take place April 26, and three local homeowners will benefit from the tasks of volunteers.

Basil Kennedy, president of the local organization who brought the project to the community's attention, said, "We need skilled and unskilled labor, as work areas will include carpentry, plumbing, painting, weather stripping, cleaning and trash removal."

Local board members are in the process of soliciting donations as well as building materials and fixtures.

Donations may be sent to: Christmas in April, P.O. Box 2219, Bay St. Louis, MS 38521.

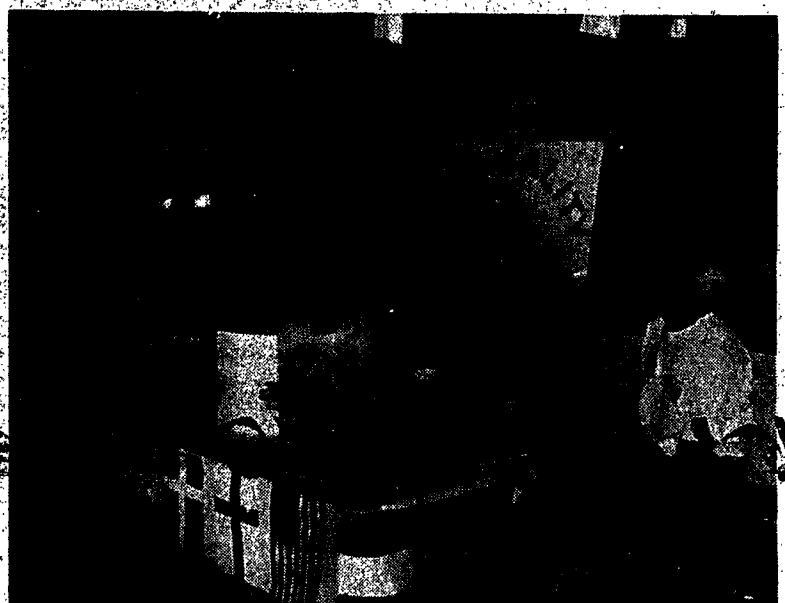

Community, groups, individuals, churches, or organizations wishing to volunteer may contact Suzanne Beatrice at Alcan Cable, 466-8111, or Jimmy Loiacano, City of Bay St. Louis, 463-7120.

We will be telling you more about the project in the weeks to come.

Voices of Hope

The Bay St. Louis Police Explorers were color guards (top) for the Voices of Hope's annual International Peace Festival recently held at the Bay St. Louis depot. Chairman Connie Heitzmann said, "It is estimated there were some 2,000 people who attended the event which had groups from the Mississippi Gulf Coast and New Orleans area give performances. Bottom photo, students from area schools manned the hospitality booth."

Gov. Fordice signs welfare reform bill

Governor Kirk Fordice announced last Wednesday that he signed House Bill 766, which among other things, placed a 60-month lifetime limit on the amount of time welfare-dependent citizens may receive taxpayer dollars and requires recipients to be working within 24 months of coming on the welfare rolls.

The bill also requires school attendance for recipients of Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF) under the age of 20 who have not graduated from high school or received an equivalent certificate.

Fordice said, "This legislation is very important because it focuses on jobs and encourages self-sufficiency, as opposed to government handouts. Not only does the federal government raise taxes and spend millions of dollars to support a failed welfare system, but many who must endure that failed system end up without proper education, without job skills and with no hope for an independent future."

Fordice added, "The taxpayers of Mississippi should not be forced to encourage and subsidize the alarming trend of one welfare generation after another."

Fordice will submit the amended State Plan to the United States Department of Health and Human Services in the near future.

Mississippi once again leads the nation in welfare reform.

Fordice has instituted innovative programs that have had extremely positive results for the taxpayers of Mississippi. For example:

- The April 1997 edition of Policy Review magazine ranked Mississippi number five in the nation for reducing the number of families receiving AFDC cash assistance from January 1987 through September 1996.

- Under Gov. Fordice's leadership, more than 20,000 fewer Mississippi families receive welfare benefits — down from 61,500 to less than 41,000 — a 14-year low.

- Since October 1995, Gov. Fordice's Work First program has placed approximately 3,000 Mississippians in jobs. The six counties participating in Work First have seen a reduction in caseload that is twice the rate in counties not involved in the program.

- Since Feb. 1995, Gov. Fordice's Faith and Families Initiative has enrolled 328 churches. Today, 393 families participate in the program, and 64 families have found employment.

- Since Gov. Fordice took office through Jan. 1997, the number of Mississippians receiving welfare cash assistance has decreased by 33 percent.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Response to Dedeaux 'field of dreams'

Dear Editor:

First I would like to thank the Echo for its wonderful coverage of Hancock County and its people.

Our "field of dreams" began with the dream of LaVonne "Buck" Peterson, who urged us to get some land and build a new field for our kids. We lost Buck to cancer before the first penny was raised, but his spirit has always been with us.

The fund raising actually began in 1985, and we began asking for help shortly thereafter. The supervisors were Roger Dale Ladner, Lisa Coward, Howard Lizana and back to Lisa, who will be here with us to see our dream realized.

They each tried very hard to get the funds to help us, but none were available. Our Park Commission, and especially Mark Swilley, also worked very hard. And finally Robert Sanders, who is not from Dedeaux, was there for every fund raiser working side by side with us. To each of the above I would like to publicly express a heartfelt thank you from the Dedeaux community.

Sacred Heart Dedeaux has always been there to make sure the kids had a place to play, however, it is a poor parish and simply could not afford to pay for the lights. However, ice was available free of charge when the center was not booked. Thank you, Sacred Heart Dedeaux and the parish family.

The hard work that went into raising the money for this land made the few who worked become a family with everyone having his or her own roll of equal importance.

We are all thankful that we were able to do something for the community and to remind everyone no one is more important than them.

Work is beginning on the field, and we urge everyone to come out and help us see Buck's dream be completed.

Mobile family appreciates hospitality from community

Dear Editor:

I want to express my appreciation to the wonderful people of Bay St. Louis for their gracious hospitality, consideration and understanding during a stressful situation.

On Feb. 14, my son was in an auto accident while working in your city. This accident put him in ICU at Hancock Medical Center. My family and I traveled to Bay St. Louis to be with him.

While we were there, the staff at the hospital and the people we came in contact with (at restaurants, retail stores, gas stations, the Sun Suites, and Church) were warm and caring ambassadors of your city.

They made our stay and visits, under the circumstances, a positive memory.

I will always remember their kindness and your beautiful city.

Sincerely,
Helen R. Downing

No answers received about pet's death

Dear Editor:

We appreciate you printing our letter about dying to answer our pet's death.

The loss of a human life cannot compare, but in our hearts, this loss is very painful. No way do we equate this to an adult or a child, but those who have pets, had pets, lost pets and loved them, all know what we feel.

We didn't reach anyone with our plea for an answer. These days, no one sees their neighbors anymore, much less gets to speak with them, and this was the only way we thought our feelings could be known.

Not one neighbor called with any comment at all. Our only friend of my mother's who doesn't even live nearby, called to say how sad she felt for what had happened.

As we had stated in our first letter, the person we hoped would read it, probably didn't, wouldn't, or doesn't even read the Echo, as genial and informative as it is to this community.

Sincerely,
Kaarin Cook Brown

FCC 'Scorecard' Provides Phone Users Information About Service Complaints

By The Federal Communications Commission

The words may not be part of your everyday vocabulary — slamming, operator service providers (OSPs), information services.

Yet, 63 percent of all consumer telephone-related complaints handled by the FCC during the most recent reporting period alleged slamming or problems with OSPs or information services.

To help consumers protect themselves — and to alert the industry to problems — the FCC's Common Carrier Bureau has compiled a "Scorecard" that provides information consumers need to make informed decisions about telephone-related services.

The "Scorecard" includes an analysis of how telephone companies performed and the types of telephone-related complaints and inquiries filed by consumers with the FCC. It also includes valuable consumer tips on how to avoid pitfalls when selecting a telecommunications company and what to do if problems occur.

The FCC tracks trends in consumer telephone-related complaints to develop policies and rules to protect consumers.

In 1995, the largest complaint category involved "slamming" — when a consumer's chosen long distance company is changed to another company without the consumer's knowledge or consent. The "Scorecard" provides an in-depth look into the FCC's track record in handling consumer telephone-related complaints.

complaints involved the rates and services of operator service providers (OSPs) — the companies that provide interstate long distance service from payphones and phones in other public locations.

In response to a large number of consumer complaints about high rates charged by some of these companies, the FCC has proposed additional rules to protect consumers against excessive OSP rates and charges.

Consumer complaints about information services — such as sports scores, psychic readers, and chat lines — ranked third.

Consumers are protected from deceptive information, service call practices by federal law and FCC and Federal Trade Commission rules.

The "Scorecard" offers tips on how companies can significantly reduce consumer complaints filed against them by consumers.

Some suggestions include providing consumers more information about their services, improving overall customer service programs and maintaining better billing and service records.

The Scorecard can be browsed and downloaded from the Internet: <http://www.fcc.gov/Bureaus/CommonCarrier/Reports/scorecard95.htm>

A limited number of copies are available from the address below.

If the article is an excellent background, only release of the FCC and Commission documents.

IN AND AROUND DIAMONDHEAD

By Margaret Williamson

VICTOR LANZA
Victor Lanza is being bought to you Sunday, March 23 at 7 p.m. at Rogers Hall at Diamondhead Academy by the Diamondhead Performing Arts Society.

You will be delighted by his voice and enjoy his music.

Tickets are $15 adults and $3.50 students at LL Ltd. or at the door the evening of the performance.

TENNIS ANYONE?
Quite a feather in the caps of Mike Milliken and his staff at Diamondhead Tennis World to be hosting the National Senior Women's Clay Court Championship March 17-23, 8:30 a.m.-4 p.m. Come watch these ladies, ages 60-80, hit that ball.

AND THE WINNERS ARE
Diamondhead Academy's $10,000 drawdown last evening was a huge success taking in considerable funds benefiting the school. Thanks to all who worked so hard to make this annual event a success, thanks to all the sponsors and supporters, and congratulations to the winners, Sandi Wahl, Sue Page, Holcomb Hector, Kila VFW, June and Chuck Edgar.

FUND RAISER FOR ALZHEIMER'S
The Diamondhead Women's Club is having its annual art show benefiting the Mississippi Alzheimer's Foundation April 5 at the community center, 9 a.m.-3 p.m.

Artists from Diamondhead and along the Coast will be exhibiting their work, and refreshments will be served.

Tickets are $3 at the door. Mark your calendars for April 26 when the club is planning a book sale along with a classic clutter sale (a.k.a. garage sale) in the Diamondhead Community Church from 9-3.

Books are needed, and check your closets and attic for "clutter."

Please call Ruth Rhodes, 255-5044 or Janice Bowe, 255-7057, for information.

IT'S OFFICIAL
The new officers and directors for the Diamondhead Boaters Association elected at their annual meeting last Saturday are Jesse Morgan, commodore; Larry Smith, vice commodore; Bernice Turner, secretary. Directors are Mickey Jordan, Bill Powers and C. B. Blanchflower.

After business, the group over 100 strong adjourned to the Diamondhead Ship's Store for a crawfish boil.

THOUGHTS TO SHARE
A friendship can weather most things and thrive in thin soil, but it needs a little mulch of letters and phone calls, and small silly presents every so often just to save it from drying out completely.

Spring is here — enjoy!

Let him entertain you

Caregiver training

Nursing assistants, activity assistants, support group leaders and volunteer caregivers are invited to attend a two-afternoon training session on caring for individuals with Alzheimer's and other dementing illnesses.

Topics will include assessment, psychiatric complications and behavioral interventions and understanding family dynamics to better help individuals who are affected by dementia in a relative.

Guest speakers will include Deborah Ecker, RN, Community Hospice of the Gulf Coast, Dr. Ray Hale, a psychologist in private practice, and Libby McQuillan, a long-term care ombudsman.

Pre-registration is necessary. Contact the South Mississippi chapter at 867-6251.

Part 1 will be from 1-4 p.m. March 21 and part 2 will be March 21 at the same times at the Opal Smith Center at 4803 Harrison Circle in Gulfport.

Training and materials are free to chapter members. Scholarships are available to volunteers who work with the chapter.

Massive Lego exhibit at SSC

The weekend of March 22 and 23 is going to be a big one at Stennis Space Center in many ways. This is when a gigantic, towering Lego exhibit made up of more than 290,000 Lego bricks will officially open.

The NASA festivities will be from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturday, March 22 and noon-4 p.m. Sunday, March 23 at the Visitors Center.

Continuous fun-filled programs, movies and a contest for the kids are planned throughout the weekend. Yours of the facility as well as fun-filled programs will also be conducted throughout the weekend.

The exhibit consists of 19 models and creates a world of rocket ships, astronauts and rocky lunar landscapes — all made entirely from Lego bricks. The exhibit took more than 3,500 hours to design, engineer and build.

"Travel in Space" is designed to teach children about flight and space travel from the Wright brothers in 1903 to the race to the moon in the 1960s to what future space travel may look like.

A play area for children is also provided in the exhibit, where children can create their own original Lego space ships, astronauts and alien landscapes in the presence of awe-inspiring, large-scale space scenes and models.

Lego Master Builders will return to the Visitors Center from 10 a.m.-3 p.m. on Saturday, May 3 to assist in the building of an 11-foot Space Shuttle. Children ages 6-12 are encouraged to attend and help the builders assemble the tremendous exhibit.

Volunteers needed for April 26 housing cleanup/repair projects

On Saturday, April 26, three local homeowners will benefit from the generosity of their neighbors in Hancock County's first "Christmas in April" project.

The homes are owned by low-income, elderly or disabled persons who are unable to properly maintain or repair them. The goal of Christmas in April is to rehabilitate these residences through the use of volunteer labor.

"We need skilled and unskilled labor," said local organization president Basil Kennedy. "Areas of work will include carpentry, plumbing, painting, weather stripping, cleaning and trash removal."

Each house captain will be a skilled contractor, while workers may include persons from all walks of life.

Local board members are currently soliciting cash donations, as well as building materials and fixtures. Donations may be sent to Christmas in Those who wish to attend are asked to preregister by Wednesday, April 23 to receive a free gift. For information or to preregister, call the Visitors Center at 1-800-237-1821 or 601-688-2870.

April, P. O. Box 2219, Bay St. Louis, MS 39521.

Community groups, churches or individuals wishing to volunteer may contact Suzanne Beatrice at Alcan Cable, 466-8111, or Jimmy Loiacano, City of Bay St. Louis, 463-7120.

Choral meditation

Our Lady of the Gulf Choir, under the direction of Music Director Edward M. Grotkowski, invites everyone for an evening choral meditation on Palm Sunday, March 23 at 7:30 p.m. in Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

Featured on the hour-long program will be Gabriel Faure's Requiem.

There is no admission charge. A free-will offering will be accepted.

Bay Middle School oak grove and garden

Through the efforts of Celia Wilcox, a teacher at BMS, Bay Middle School has received a grant of $2,000 from the Mississippi Forestry Commission. With community support and grant assistance the school began its environmental education landscaping project.

Bay Middle School is located in downtown Bay St. Louis and is listed in the National Register of Historical Places. The intention of this project is to enhance this historical school's campus and to designate class gardens that provide environmental activities to over 500 students in fourth, fifth and sixth grade.

During the remainder of this school year, teachers and students will participate in tree and plant cultivation. Container gardens and bird feeders will be placed on the front campus. There will also be small shrubs and flowers planted around the flag area. The school's long-range plans are to include the construction of a wooden deck that would serve as an interpretive center (outdoor classroom).

Additional support will come from BMS Parent-Teacher Organization, Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District personnel, Dr. Drew Bates of the Hancock County Cooperative Extension Service, American Legion Post 139, Hancock County Historical Society, Hancock County Soil & Water Conservation Service and W. A. McDonald & Sons (ACE Hardware).

Johnnie Cochran to keynote UM Black Law Students' Banquet

Attorney Johnnie L. Cochran Jr., a member of O. J. Simpson's legal defense team, will speak at the University of Mississippi March 22.

Cochran will address the Black Law Student Association's (BLSA) annual banquet, which will be open to the public. Tickets to the 6 p.m. seated dinner and speech at the C. M. "Tad" Smith Coliseum are $40 each for general admission and $25 for Ole Miss students with valid IDs.

The event is being dedicated to the late Dr. Louis Westfield, who at the time of his death Aug. 24, 1996, was dean of the university's School of Law. He was the first African-American dean at Ole Miss.

Any proceeds from the banquet's ticket sales will be used to support BLSA's operational expenses and activities, including the Feed the Needy program; participation in the Frederick Douglass National Moot Court Competition, Elementary Literacy Program and Black History Month activities and student recruitment.

For ticket information, contact the Black Law Students Association, Lamar Law Center, Room 101-A, (601) 232-6880.

Coast science fair

An estimated 1,500 elementary and secondary students will converge on the Mississippi Coast Coliseum today and Friday for an expanded version of the annual Mississippi Region 6 Science and Engineering Fair.

The event has been expanded to two days to accommodate the growing number of entries, according to science fair co-directors Dr. Sharon Walker, administrator of the J. L. Scott Marine Education Center and Aquarium, and Dr. Shelia Brown, chairman of the science department at the Jefferson Davis campus of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College.

Students from Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, George and Stone counties who have placed first, second or third in their grade class and subject category in schoolwide or citywide competition are eligible.

For projects meeting judging criteria, medallions will be awarded to first, second and third place winners with ribbons presented to fourth and fifth place winners and honorable mention.

Representatives of the various branches of the armed services, research organizations, industry and other groups interested in scientific excellence will also be presenting awards. Elementary students set up their projects beginning at 7 a.m. today with judging from 9 a.m.-1:30 p.m. The exhibition area will be open for public viewing from 1:30-2:45 p.m. with projects to be removed from 2:45-3 p.m. Presentation of awards will follow at 3:15 p.m.

Secondary students will set up their projects today 7-9 p.m. and Friday morning from 7:30-9:15.

Four rounds of judging are slated Friday: 9:15-11:30 a.m.; 12:45-2 p.m.; 2:15-4 p.m. and 4:15-5:15 p.m.

The exhibition area will be open for public viewing from 5:15-6 p.m. with presentation of awards beginning at 7 p.m.

Regional competition is the highest level elementary winners can attain while secondary students who take first, second or third place advance to state competition April 7 at the University of Mississippi in Oxford.

Dr. Walker said two science fair finalists and one team project will be selected to compete in the 48th International Science and Engineering Fair (ISEF) in Louisville, Ky. Two ISEF alternates are also selected.

First Baptist sponsors First Place program

First Baptist Church of Bay St. Louis is offering a balanced, Christ-centered approach to weight loss through a program known as First Place.

The program involves a nutritionally balanced eating plan, daily Bible study, prayer, scripture memorization, exercise and small group accountability.

Anyone who meets the following requirements is invited to join the class.

1. Initial cost is $65, which covers the cost of books and materials.
2. Commitment to 13 weeks for one session a week.

The organizational meeting will be held Sunday, March 23 at 4:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church choir room at 141 Main Street.

For information, call the church office at 467-4005.

Maundy Thursday

Main Street United Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis will be celebrating Maundy Thursday March 27 at 7 p.m. in the church sanctuary.

Cooking

The couple kept homes in New Orleans and Pass Christian for several years, but moved over completely when they purchased a weekly newspaper, The Owl, shortly before Hurricane Camille devastated the Coast in August of 1969. It was in this publication that her first "Cooking up a Storm" column was distributed, along with "Shopping Up a Storm."

The hurricane destroyed their home and offices, and the Caires were forced to suspend publication of The Owl.

Caire's first cookbook of the same name was published in 1971, and she began writing her popular cooking column for the Sea Coast Echo shortly afterwards. As the years passed, she continued to write for the Sea Coast Echo, frequently thanking and mentioning friends who submitted recipes, and interspersing the columns with tidbits on her growing family.

In 1976, the Caires published the first history of Pass Christian. They started a history on Waveland, but never finished it due to her husband's illness and death.

In 1979, Caire's original cookbook was transformed from the "original binder" form to a paperback, and it went into its second printing.

Ellis Cuevas, editor and publisher of the Echo, remembers Caire as a gently and caring woman and a freelancer he could depend upon.

"She really enjoyed doing her column, and we got a lot of reader response to it," said Cuevas.

"Once a week, she'd come in and gently drop a column off and say a few words to the ladies up front. When she didn't show up, we knew she had to be sick or something was wrong. She'll be sadly missed in our publication."

A feature on Caire took up the full Community page of the Echo in September of 1996, and she described her motto in life.

"If you live some place, you should work to make it a better place to live," she said.

And, Caire loved her adopted community with a passion. The Pass Christian Volunteer Fire Department began in the Caires living room. She was a founding member of the Pass Christian Friends of the Library and the Pass Christian Isles Civic Association and a member of St. Paul's Catholic Church. In 1986, she was named the first lifetime member of the Henderson Point-Pass Christian Isles Civic Association for her contributions to the community.

Caire believed in staying active. "I don't want to be one of these little old ladies who just sit at home," she said in the 1989 article. "I hate rocking, and I can't knit. I'd rather be off doing things with my friends or helping the old ladies who live here in the neighborhood," she said.

Services were Tuesday from St. Paul's Church in Pass Christian with burial at Garden of Memories Cemetery in Metairie.

Survivors include her two sons and daughters-in-laws, Sue Breath McGuire and Roi McLeod McGuire and six grandsons.

Chinese National Acrobats to appear at Grand Theatre

Biloxi Grand Theatre is bringing The Chinese National Acrobats and "The Spirit of China" American Tour to the Mississippi Gulf Coast Thursday, March 27. Showtime is 7:30 p.m. Ticket prices are $15/floor and $10/balcony.

"The Spirit of China" is a night of entertainment for the whole family. Touring for over 40 years and performing in over 60 countries and regions, The Chinese National Acrobats Troupe will amaze and astonish the audience with their intricate circus skill, elaborate costumes and flashy choreography and show design. "The Spirit of China" features six different styles of acrobatic entertainment.

Sets recreating images of the Great Wall of China, the forbidden City and the Imperial Palace are an integral part of the performance. The troupe currently touring the United States has been honored with 25 gold and 16 silver Olympic medals and many more awards in both national and international competitions.

For information, call 1-800-WIN-2-WIN ext. 2804. Tickets are also available at all TicketMaster outlets.

President Casino

Gary Puckett returns to President Casino

The President Casino in Biloxi is featuring a return performance by Gary Puckett Friday, March 28 and Saturday, March 29.

Puckett, founder of Gary Puckett and the Union Gap, rose to celebrity status in the 1960's and 1970's with such hits as "Young Girl," "Lady Willpower," "Over You," "This Girl is a Woman Now," and "Woman, Woman."

A consistent crowd pleaser, Puckett and the Union Gap had six consecutive gold records in 1968 and sold more records in that year than any other recording act, including the Beatles. The group's "Greatest Hits" album remains one of CBS records best sellers in its "Collectors Series."

Puckett has appeared on more than 30 network television shows and prime time specials during his career. The group added to its vast credits the distinction of playing a command performance at the White House for Prince Charles and Princess Ann at the request of President Nixon in the late 1960's.

Puckett will appear in the President Casino's Showbar Lounge March 28-29 with two free performances nightly at 8 and 11 p.m.

All shows are free. Attendees must be at least 21

Enforcement officers to carry torch for Special Olympics

Bay-Waveland law enforcement officers will gather March 22 to run the Special Olympics Torch to the opening of the 15th annual Olympic games at Stennis Space Center.

The run, organized by Bay St. Louis police officer Lt. Don Oco, will include law enforcement representatives from Bay St. Louis and Waveland, assisted by runners from the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club Running Club.

"Law enforcement officers have been participating in the State games' torch run for several years," said Oco, "but this is the first time we will run to support our local games."

At 6 a.m. at the Hancock County Courthouse and run the first leg to Hwy. 90. The torch will continue to be passed from one law enforcement officer to another until it reaches the Special Olympics athlete runner at SSC.

A representative from both agencies will accompany the athlete on the final leg of the run where, in keeping with the Olympic tradition, the athlete will raise the torch to signify the beginning of the games.

"We're very excited to be part of this event," remarked Oco, "and hope to make it a continuing part of the Stennis games."

For information on the run, contact Lt. Oco at 467-9221. For information on the SSC Special Olympic games, contact Becky Rotundo at 688-5328.

BUSINESS NEWS

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, MARCH 20, 1997-9A

Harrison named state chairman

M. C. Princy Harrison, CPA, CGFM has been named chairman of the Mississippi State Board of Public Accountancy recently in Jackson. The board regulates and licenses certified public accountants in Mississippi to promote and protect the public interest.

The board also oversees the administering of the Uniform CPA Examination within Mississippi and works in conjunction with other states in areas of common interest through the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy (NASBA).

Harrison is currently serving on NASBA's Future Licensing, Litigation and Legislation Committee and formerly served on the Intergovernmental Relations Committee.

Harrison is a partner with the Laurel firm of Holt and Associates, P.A. Prior to joining the firm in 1985, she taught accounting at the University of Southern Mississippi for seven years. She is a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA), the Mississippi Society of Certified Public Accountants (MSCPA), Association of Government Accountants (AGA) and the MSCPA Society's local chapter.

She teaches courses to CPA's for MSCPA and has taught courses for the AICPA. She has served the Mississippi Society as a director, chairman of the Governmental Accounting and Auditing Committee, and is currently a member of the Accounting and Auditing Committee.

During 1996, Harrison received certification as a certified governmental financial manager from the Association of Government Accountants based in Alexandria, Va. The CGFM designation is awarded on successful completion of the certification requirements as an expert government financial manager and requires additional continuing education in the areas specifically relating to governmental accounting, auditing and management. She received a certificate of educational achievement in governmental accounting and auditing from the AICPA in 1992.

Locally, Harrison serves as treasurer of the Board to the Family Health Center, is a member of Chi Omega Alumni Association, DAR, and is an active member of Immaculate Conception Church.

She lives in Ellisville with her husband George and is the mother of four children. She came to Ellisville from the Mississippi Coast.

She is the daughter of Marion Cook of Bay St. Louis and the late Brig. General John Henry Cook Jr. USMC. She graduated with honors from St. Joseph Academy in Bay St. Louis and received a bachelor's of science in business education and a master's of science in accounting from USM.

Office up and running

Beth Carriere, executive director of the Hancock County Tourism Development Bureau, has moved into her new office in the back of the Peoples Bank Building on Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis. The office space was renovated and donated by Peoples Bank with furnishings donated by Casino Magic. Carriere plans to decorate the office by displaying works of local artists which will be available for sale.

Tourism director to speak to D'head group

Beth Carriere, executive director of the Hancock County Tourism Development Bureau, will be guest speaker at the general meeting of the Diamondhead Business & Professional Association (DB&PA) at 8 a.m. Thursday, March 27 at Park Ten Lanes Bowling Alley in Diamondhead.

Carriere is a lifelong resident of the Mississippi Gulf Coast and was educated in Jackson County, Perkinson Junior College and the University of Southern Mississippi.

Having been employed by the Harrison County Tourism Commission for six years prior to her position as director, Carriere is now responsible for the promotion, tourism development and marketing of Hancock County. At the DB&PA monthly meeting she will be announcing tentative future plans for marketing Hancock County as a tourist destination.

All Diamondhead businesses and retired persons are encouraged to join the Diamondhead Business & Professional Association. For information on applications for membership for 1997, contact Jon W. Ritten, membership chairman, at 255-9188.

Creating the resume that gets the interview

Creating a resume to entice prospective employers can be a daunting task for soon-to-be college graduates or others planning career changes, says University of Mississippi Career Center Director Scott Williams.

"Prospective employers aren't going to read a resume, they're going to scan it. The average time an employer might spend on a resume could be as little as 10 to 15 seconds during initial screening," he says.

While a resume isn't going to get you a job, Williams says, it will get you an interview. The Career Center director offers the following tips for creating a marketable resume:

- Keep it short and sweet. The resume needs to be a one-page, professional, clean and typeset copy. "A recent survey reports that 60 percent of employers form an opinion of a resume based on its appearance alone," he says. "You need to avoid any typos or misspellings, and you don't want to use a lot of dates and numbers that clutter up the appearance of the resume."

- Choose between a chronological or functional resume. The chronological resume is used to detail honors, education, work experience and activities in chronological order. Begin with most recent experiences and work backwards.

- A functional resume is a summary or profile of skills or functions. Profile sections — such as leadership, management and organization — may have three to four bulleted statements to define and expand upon each skill.

- Know your objective. If using an objective statement, it should be specific and precise. This part of a resume is not a marketing gimmick. You may decide to eliminate the statement on the resume if you are sending a cover letter detailing your interest in the positions.

- Use action verbs to begin your job descriptions. Never use the first person. Williams says, "You never want to say 'I did this and that'."

and directed.

- Revise, revise, revise. "Spend a lot of time on your resume to make sure it's in the best possible shape and condition," he says. "Have multiple people review it to provide suggestions."

- Market what you've done. "Take what you have done and emphasize the transferable skills that you've used," Williams says. "Transferable skills are those which can be applicable to almost any career."

- Handle references in any one of a number of different ways. "You can simply put 'References available upon request' at the bottom of your resume," The Ole Miss director says, "or you may include a reference sheet — a separate page which lists the names, addresses and telephone numbers of persons who are serving as your references."

Employees complete training

Rhodes Carpet and Draperies managers David Salters, Pass Road branch, and Larry Semski, Ocean Springs branch, have recently completed a week long sales managers seminar with CarpetMax in Atlanta, Ga.

Leadership, time management, managing people, goal setting and sales training were among the courses they completed.

Also, Charles Schaffer, sales associate with Rhodes Carpet and Draperies, Pass Road location, has just completed an intense week long study at CarpetMax's University of Carpet in Atlanta.

Studies included salesmanship, time management, flooring styles and trend and a visit to a carpet mill to see all phases of constructing carpets.

Bond

To accommodate the growth here's how the school board plans to spend the $20 million bond issue:

Hancock North Central Elementary: $1,395,000 in renovations and improvements to the school. Site improvements include upgrading parking, lighting and storm drainage facilities.

Interior upgrades cover new heating and air conditioning and renovation of bathrooms, administrative offices, the cafeteria and gymnasium.

The package also covers removal of asbestos tiles at the school and replacing the gym's windows. The school's classrooms will get new acoustical ceilings, new flooring and a paint job.

Gulfview Elementary School: $1,590,000, covering drainage, lighting and electrical system upgrades, renovations to bathroom, classrooms and administrative facility.

A new cafeteria is set for construction, while the existing cafeteria will be turned into an arts and music education facility.

Officials said the school also has asbestos materials which will be removed from floor tiles and pipe insulation. In addition, workers will upgrade parking facilities and build a new cafeteria, demolish an old building at the south end of campus, and replace it with a new classroom building.

Charles B. Murphy Elementary: $775,000, covering various site improvements, construction of a new media center with science and music facilities, electrical system upgrade, and renovations to bathrooms, classrooms and the cafeteria.

Asbestos material will be removed from the floor tiles and pipe insulation.

Hancock High School: $475,000, including outside lighting and parking facility upgrades, and renovation of the vocational school facility. Officials said the school's soccer field will be relocated, and drainage capacity will be improved. The package also includes additional storage areas and covered walkways.

Another $450,000 is earmarked for a new transportation maintenance building and additional school buses.

The biggest items in the bond issue cover costs of two new schools. An elementary facility for the Kiln area is estimated to cost $5,534,877, while the new middle school is projected at $9,439,676.

Plans call for building an elementary school in the Kiln area, serving 600 students initially, with core facilities for 750 students. The school will be completely furnished, including computer equipment, and a gymnasium will be built on the site.

The new middle school will be built near the existing high school off Hwy. 603 near Stennis Airport. It will accommodate 1,200 students initially, with facilities for a capacity of 1,500. Plans include a gymnasium and computer-equipped classrooms.

Architect Taylor Guild said renovations to the existing elementary schools will transform them to like-new facilities.

With less than two months to go before the referendum, school officials hope to make their case to the public quickly. A special "seminar" on the building program was scheduled for March 27, when architects will outline details of the plans to school administrators.

Officials said if the bond issue is approved in May, the two new schools should be ready for occupancy by the beginning of the 1999 school year.

State law requires a three-fifth approval among the voter turnout before the bond issue can proceed.

Randolph said the impact of the $20 million tab on taxpayers shouldn't be dramatic, especially considering the growth that the county has experienced since the last property reappraisal program in the mid-1980's.

Tax officials are amid a reappraisal of the entire county.

With its proposal, Hancock County joins eight other school districts in South Mississippi which have passed a bond issue in the last several years, including George, Stone, Jackson and Harrison County districts, and Pascagoula, Ocean Springs, Gulfport and Picayune.

Other school bond issues are in the planning stage for Pass Christian, Bay-Waveland and Pearl River County school districts, Guild said.

proval for Phase I of The Oaks Subdivision contingent upon the subdivision completing the "punch list" compiled by the Public Works Department.

There were questions raised concerning drainage in the subdivision and easements for the city to be able to get to drainage ditches located at the rear of some lots.

Dennis Steiffel, the engineer on the project, agreed to place certain covenants on the property which would facilitate the city's access to the drainage when needed.

Ron Vanney, head of the Public Works Department, said the construction drawings have been reviewed by engineers and he plans future inspections to make sure the plans are followed.

"I want to make sure they (Lifestyles 2000) comply with what the plans call for," Vanney said.

The site plan for the new Latter and Blum office to be constructed on Highway 90 and Longfellow was approved pending meeting all site plan requirements, including proper buffering requirements if needed.

The council approved up to $3,000 in support of the Bay High DECA Club to attend a national competition in California.

It must first be determined if the council will be allowed to give the funds, due to certain prohibitions.

The council passed a motion of intent to go forward with the creation of a bronze statue of Bienville to be erected in Bay

St. Louis in conjunction with the city's tricentennial.

Leo Seal, Jr. and Hancock Bank have agreed to pick up half of the cost of the project, which will cost approximately $25,000.

The statue would be located near the Hancock Bank on Beach Boulevard and the council discussed selling bricks to go in the area surrounding the statue in order to help with costs.

The council agreed to give $325 to the Old Town Merchant's Association for purchase of 30 garbage cans to be painted in a contest sponsored by the group.

The money was allocated to buy the cans which will then be donated back to the city following the contest.

Participants will paint the cans with scenes depicting Hancock County and cash prizes will be awarded.

The Hancock County Tourism Development Bureau will receive $1,500 per month from Bay St. Louis for the remainder of the city's fiscal year.

The request came from Beth Carriere, Executive Director of the Bureau, who informed the council at Monday's workshop that she needs to hire an administrative/clerical person to help in the running of the office.

The city's budget has funds allocated under the line item "Tourism" to be spent by the council.

A bid in the amount of $7,280 was accepted from D and A Associates for bleachers at the Athletic Complex.

Site

"Since the date of our meeting wherein you granted to Hancock County an extension until June 1, 1997 for use of the Standard Landfill as a rubbish site, the county has been in contact with Prutimber on a number of occasions," Moran explained.

"While they have indicated that they will sell us the property (450 acres off Flat Tap Road in the buffer zone surrounding the Stennis Space Center), they do not want to sell us the property for its appraised value," said Moran.

The county got an independent appraiser to look at the site last September, and he placed its value at $306,300. The property is part of a trust administered by Prudential Life Insurance Company, based in Boston.

Moran said supervisors have also revealed that there is some legal question whether the county can construct and man a landfill or rubbish site in the buffer zone, although NASA said it does not object.

The perpetual and assignable easements assigned to property owners who still hold title to land in the larger outlying buffer zones "prohibits the construction of dwellings and other buildings susceptible of being used for human habitation or human occupancy.

"We are presently attempting to have the legislature amend... (state law) to include the word NASA, so that we can proceed with eminent domain against Prutimber," Moran wrote. The state law Moran cites allows counties and municipalities to extend waterworks, sewage and garbage disposal systems and rubbish sites into an area where there might be a military presence, but it does not specifically mention NASA.

"Under present law, since the county is not an authority, we have been advised by our attorney that we cannot go forward with eminent domain proceedings and this was verified by the general counsel for the Mississippi Association of Supervisors. However, if the aforementioned section can be amended, we anticipate going forward with eminent domain proceedings immediately," said Moran.

Moran said he wanted Palmer to know, "The Board as a whole has been exerting tireless effort in attempting to find an area that meets all of the standards required that will not interfere with an individual's rights... We feel that the county is making every effort to go forward with its own landfill and rubbish site."

In the meantime, Moran said while supervisors continue to negotiate the purchase of the Prutimber property, "We have requested various real estate agents to try and find Hancock County sufficient area that meets DEQ standards in the buffer zone for construction of a sanitary landfill and rubbish site."

Moran also asked Palmer if the county can use "some of the undeveloped area at the Standard site that has not been permitted to see whether or not testing by your department will allow the county to use this land for an additional rubbish site."

The Hancock County School District holds title to 96 acres of Section 16 land adjacent to the 41-acre rubbish site, which it has leased to the county. In the past, the School District has refused to lease or sell supervisors the additional acreage, on which the Solid Waste District had already gotten DEQ permission to construct and open a sanitary landfill.

But, supervisors did not ask the school board if the county could acquire the additional land specifically in order to extend the rubbish site.

Laser

"The space-based laser appears to be by far the most effective boost-phase intercept system being developed by the Department of Defense," Lott added.

While asking supervisors to endorse the resolution, P&H Executive Director Hal Walters said he expected an inspection team from the Department of Defense to visit Stennis sometime in mid April.

running amuck and gathering in unincorporated parts of the county was brought to supervisors' attention by Lt. Ken Hurt, a 15-year veteran of the sheriff's force and Hancock County's chief juvenile crime investigator.

"We need a countywide curfew," Hurt told supervisors, shortly before Sheriff Ronnie Peterson entered the room.

Hurt said he is frequently called out at three in the morning by complaints that juveniles are roaming around neighborhoods on bikes or hanging out on corners late at night. He said the problem exists "almost everywhere," but is particularly bad in Bayside Park, Lakeshore, Diamondhead and Pearlington.

Board Attorney Gerald Gex said he didn't know of a state law that allows supervisors to impose a curfew in unincorporated areas, except in hurricanes or other times of emergencies, but he would get an opinion from the attorney general.

Peterson said the problem is that deputies don't have any arrest powers unless juveniles are caught in the act of committing a crime.

He said a curfew would at least "give the law a little more teeth" and allow deputies to at least stop and question the youths.

The counties of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, now have a curfew that requires juveniles 17 or younger to stay off the streets from 11 p.m. until 6 a.m. on weekdays.

Board President Philip Moran said Gex would check around the state to see if curfews have been passed in unincorporated areas.

dalim in rural cemeteries.

District 2 Supervisor Rocky Pullman said public and private cemeteries in the buffer zone around the Stennis Space Center were particularly vulnerable, and most of the desecration of graves is being caused by juveniles riding bikes through the cemeteries.

Just last March 7, sheriff's deputies were called out to St. Joseph's Rotten Bayou Cemetery on the fringes of Diamondhead, and reported several headstones and flower vases were broken beyond repair.

Gex told supervisors the county could erect the "No Trespassing" signs at county cemeteries, and post them at private cemeteries if they are requested.

Gex said state law provides for one-year imprisonment and a $500 fine if a person is convicted of desecrating a gravesite.

Peterson promised to beef up patrols, especially in cemeteries in rural areas, and said the signs should serve as a deterrent.

Board President Philip Moran said he would also like to look into what it might cost to install lights at county cemeteries. He said there might be nearby power sources which the county could tap.

Tony Esau, president of the Diamondhead Business and Professional Association, told supervisors there has been a rise in crime since the Diamondhead Property Owner's Association no longer allows its private security firm to patrol the business section of Diamondhead.

He said businessmen along the strip will let the sheriff use a building for the year-end party and make it a safe place.

would put in a sub-station.

The district's supervisor, Lisa Coward, made the motion to accept the businessmen's offer, but Pullman objected at first.

Pullman said sub-stations are needed all over the county, particularly in Pearlington, which is in his district.

Peterson said he had an attorney general's ruling, which states that no entity can get better protection from the sheriff's department just because one particular area might be able to pay for it.

"You're opening up a whole new can of worms there," said Peterson. He said he has no extra money in his budget to man another sub-station fulltime.

The sheriff said he could instruct his deputies to use the sub-station for writing up reports, and "be a presence."

He said their mere presence might deter crime in the business section of Diamondhead.

Currently, the sheriff's department has a sub-station in the northern part of Hancock County near the junction of Hwy. 603 and 43.

Peterson said there is a need for more sub-stations in Bayside Park, Shoreline Park and Pearlington, but there are no funds to operate any of them on a day-to-day basis.

2B-THE SEA COAST ECHO-THURSDAY, MARCH 20, 1997

BETWEEN THE LINES

By Richard Meek

An ill-advised decision by the Indiana high school principals serves as a microcosm as to what all athletics today.

The short-sighted principals conveyed a message to schoolboy athletes in Indiana that mediocrity is acceptable, and that excellence is evil. At the very core, if one is to believe the principals, striving to be the best should never be tolerated.

The principals sent down that message when they voted to abolish the one class playoff system in Indiana prep basketball. It has been a long-standing tradition in the Hoosier state, where basketball is life (has anyone not seen Hoosiers?), that all schools, regardless of size, compete for one state title, thereby creating one true state champion.

The teams convene at a neutral site for the later rounds of the playoffs, and the atmosphere is electric. Tickets are gold, but that does not deter small cities from emptying so fans can be a part of the party. High school basketball in Indiana is Mardi Gras Hoosier-style.

I witnessed a similar type of atmosphere covering sports in Ohio. Each year, basketball's semifinals and finals are held at Ohio State in Columbus, and to my amazement, the frenzy is akin to that of a Final Four.

Proponents of the multi-class system claim it is unrealistic to expect smaller schools to be able to compete against the larger schools. But what the educators have done is to create a "feel-good" system, whereby schools in several classes are awarded trophies, and more people go home with a warm and fuzzy feeling. Underneath the veil of the championship banner, the result remains a reward for mediocrity.

One of the greatest aspects of athletics has always been the journey to success. No matter the sport, if a team is to be of championship caliber, then the athletes must mesh into a cohesive unit in concert with their goals, be dedicated, and make the necessary sacrifices to win.

Have you ever wondered why athletes are so emotional when winning a title? It is because the carnage of sacrifice left in the wake of a long season has finally paid off. The journey has reached a successful conclusion.

The Indiana principals are saying that if you can't compete against the best, then create your own championship. That is the same as promoting ordinariness, and what athlete worth his Nikes wants to be ordinary?

In sport, the challenge lies in reaching the unattainable, of knocking off the favorite. We are a country that embraces the underdog.

If David had the mindset of the principals, he would have turned away from Goliath, conceding that Goliath was bigger and thereby unbeatable.

If the University of Tennessee-Chattanooga played by that mentality, they would be home, rather than in the Sweet 16 of March Madness. Green Bay is perhaps at more of a disadvantage than any other team in the NFL, yet what city is known as Titletown, U.S.A.? And where does the Lombardi Trophy sit today?

There can be no doubt the larger schools in Indiana do have an advantage. But what is the payoff of the small schools throwing in the towel and saying they can't compete against the big guys?

Lessons learned in athletics certainly carry over to life. Are the principals espousing a belief that small businesses should accept their niche and not strive to grow?

The business world is full of Indiana principals at fault

success stories where an individual began small but thought big. Through hard work, proper planning and execution, and a little luck, his or her business became a national company. Of course, that is not a bad blueprint for a team or athlete either.

Shouldn't we all, but at the very least educators, teach students to dream, for a young person's horizon only to be limited by their imagination?

Shouldn't youngsters be taught to aim high, to be the best no matter the endeavor? By lowering the standards and leveling the playing field, creativity is stifled and what is the harshest of crimes, potential untapped.

Several years back, nobody gave North Carolina State much of a chance in the NCAA championship game. But it was the Wolfpack's heart, and not their talent, that drove them to an improbable title. Talent is useless without motivation, and for small Indiana schools, the opportunity to compete against their big brothers is the driving force.

That should never be taken away. In Indiana, boys dream from the crib of playing before a packed arena for THE state basketball championship. It is the scenario acted out in every playground and backyard court.

In his final days and in front of a national television audience, NC State coach Jim Valvano said, "Don't give up, don't ever give up."

Giving up is exactly what the Indiana principals have done. They are telling those who they are entrusted to educate that eminence is evil and that common is good.

Pity those poor athletes, for their tradition has been eradicated by a group of principals looking through blinders. The whole state loses.

Wildcats 7-7 after Wed. split with Kishwaukee

Pearl River Community College's 1997 baseball record remains at the 500 mark following a split in doubleheader action with the Kishwaukee Cougars from Malta, Ill., on the Wildcat diamond Wednesday, March 12.

Pearl River was shut out in the first game 3-0, but rebounded in the second with a 10-hit barrage to take a hard-fought 9-7 victory. The Wildcats are 7-7 overall, 2-2 in the South Division heading into Tuesday's 1 p.m. doubleheader against South rival Jones Junior College on the PRCC diamond.

Last Thursday's doubleheader with Belhaven College on the Poplarville campus was cancelled due to rain.

PRCC split with the Holmes Bulldogs Sunday, March 9, winning the first game of the doubleheader 5-4, but were shut out in the second 5-0. On Saturday, March 8, the Wildcats split with Hinds, losing the first game 7-0, but winning the second 4-3 to even its division mark at 2-2.

In the first game against Kishwaukee, freshman T. J. Landreneau (0-3) was the losing pitcher in his 6 1/3 inning on the mound, allowing 3 runs (2 earned) off 10 hits, while striking out 5 and walking 7 in his 6 1/3 innings on the mound. Shawn Gregory and Rich Stampley saw some action.

The Wildcats managed only 3 hits in the game with sophomore Chad Young leading the way with 2 singles. Stampley also pitched for PRCC.

In the second game, the team in the red pinstripes led the Cougars 3-0 in the first inning.

walking 1. Pruitt relieved freshman starter Corey Pitre who hurled 4 innings, allowing 5 runs (4 earned) off 5 hits, while striking out 4 and walking 4. Sophomore Greg Boone pitched the final inning.

Against Holmes on March 9, PRCC split doubleheader action, winning the first game 5-4, but suffering a 5-0 shutout in the second.

In the first game, Stampley picked up the win for the Wildcats. The freshman pitched 4 2/3 innings and allowed 2 runs (both earned) off 6 hits, while striking out 3 and walking 3.

PRCC managed only 4 hits in the contest — all singles.

In the second game, Boone was the losing pitcher, hurling 5 1/3 innings and allowing 5 runs (all earned) off 4 hits, while striking out 7 and walking 6.

Chad Young led PRCC at the plate with 2 singles. The Wildcats managed 5 hits in the contest.

Against Hinds in Raymond, Landreneau was the losing pitcher in the first game, allowing 7 runs (all earned) off 12 hits, while striking out 6 and walking one.

In the second game, Pruitt was the winning pitcher for the Wildcats, allowing 1 run (earned) off 1 hit, while striking out 4 and walking 2. Tim Hamilton also saw mound action for PRCC.

Pearl River resumed action Tuesday with a South Division doubleheader with Mississippi Gulf Coast at 1 p.m.

Deep South Bruisers down Ocean Springs 5-3

The BAYS/Deep South Bruisers travelled to Hattiesburg Sunday and came away with a victory over the Mississippi Coast Futbol Club in U-12 action.

Eric Lymuel led the way, scoring three goals and received support from Kyle Lewis and Patrick Donohoe, each with one.

Also applying pressure on the offensive side of the ball were Michael Bourgeois, Michael Kivian, Michael Leonard, T.J. Koger, Grady Wyly, Will Boxx and Jake Johnson.

Defensively, the Bruisers had an excellent game, shutting down virtually every threat by Ocean Springs. Trey Treutel, Beau Brodtmann, Matt Johnson and Jeremy Boelte held the opponents at bay while Timmy Kulikowski and Ben Benvenutti shared goalkeeping responsibilities. The Bruisers are coached by former St. Stanislaus standout Bubba O'Brien.

The team takes a break this weekend due to ODP workouts and will resume action Saturday, March 29. The games are scheduled as home matches, but no times have been set yet.

Chaos to practice in Bay

BY RICHARD MEEK

Practice for the Coast Chaos of the newly-formed USISL W-League will be held on the semi-nary practice fields today beginning at 4 p.m.

Practice will also be held next Tuesday and Thursday beginning at 4 p.m.

Bay High School junior midfielder Andie Fillingame was the first player selected for the elite team. Senior defender Rachel Pernicaro and junior defender Mandie French of Bay High, and junior striker Kristin Cannon and sophomore defender Leslie Fisher of Our Lady Academy have been selected for the team's training squad, which means they are competing against 23 other players for one of the team's remaining 17 roster slots.

The USISL will field 34 teams and feature the country's premiere amateur soccer players. A total of 884 female soccer players will be selected.

Teams will be located in several large markets, including Dallas, Jackson, Birmingham, Ala., Atlanta, Charlotte, N.C., and Tampa.

The public is invited to view the practices.

Scholarships attract athletes

The 1997 "Will to Win" Asthma Athlete Scholarship Program has generated over 4,000 application requests from around the country — and many more are expected by the March 31 filing deadline.

The nationwide program is sponsored by the Schering/KEY corporation of Madison, NJ, leaders in the field of asthma therapy, treatment and education.

Now in its 13th year, the "Will To Win" program honors 10 high school seniors who have achieved both academic and athletic excellence in spite of the challenge of asthma.

Scholarships, including the top $10,000 award, will be presented at a press conference and banquet to be held this summer in New York City.

The annual award ceremonies are highlighted by asthmatic sports luminaries who wish to lend their support and inspiration to young people with the condition.

Recent spokespersons have included football great Art Monk, baseball Hall of Famer Bob Gibson, high jumping champion Dwight Stones and running legend Jim Ryun.

Dr. Raymond G. Slavin, director of the Allergy and Immunology Division at St. Louis University Medical School will lead a panel of physicians in judging the entries.

Information and applications for the scholarship program may be obtained by calling 1-800-558-7305.

Brumfield honored

Emma Brumfield, level 4 gymnast, recently won first place all around at the Mississippi Recreational Association State Gymnastics Meet in Meridian. Emma is the 7-year-old daughter of Doyle and Christy Brumfield of Petal and the granddaughter of Mrs. Ruth Davis of Pearlinton. She is a member of the TGC Gymnastics team in Hattiesburg.

Space available for hockey clinic

Youth who are interested in learning hockey from the pros at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum's Youth Ice Hockey Clinic for youth ages 16 and under, still have an opportunity to participate.

Spaces are available for a limited number of participants in each group for this Sunday.

The clinic is the only one held this season. Mississippi Sea Wolves Coach Boudreau and three Mississippi Sea Wolves players will host the clinics.

Participants will be divided into two age groups: 6-10 and 11-16. The age 6-10 clinic will be held 8:30-10 a.m.; the 11-16 age group clinic will be 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

Students will learn, through demonstrations and actual participation hockey skating skills, proper hockey stick handling and shooting skills. The clinic will begin with a 10-minute stretch after which the group will be divided into three groups and put into zones. Each zone will concentrate on a particular hockey skill before rotating to another skill area. The clinic will end with a 15-minute hockey game between the participants.

Those participating are asked to arrive no later than 45 minutes before the scheduled clinic time to allow time for dressing out in the Sea Wolves locker rooms. Players should arrive fully equipped with hockey helmet, stick, shin pads, socks, jock strap, garter belt, hockey pants, shoulder and elbow pads and hockey gloves.

Cost is $30 per participant. Tickets for the clinic may be purchased at the Coliseum Box Office. For information, call the Coliseum at 388-8010 or the Coliseum Box Office at 388-8222.

Floods raise concern

The rising flood water has raised some concerns about the turkey season which opens March 22 in most areas.

Officials with the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks are monitoring the flooded areas to determine how best to protect the wildlife that is being forced from its habitat and to determine in which areas turkey season should be closed. An announcement will be released soon.

Turkey Hunters should be aware of laws in place that address the taking of game during high water. Mississippi Law 49-7-77 makes it unlawful to hunt, trap, frighten or kill game or fur-bearing animals forced out of their natural habitat by high water.

Mississippi Law 49-7-45 makes it unlawful to hunt, take or shoot at any game bird from any motorboat or other craft having a motor attached unless the motor has been completely shut off and its progress has ceased.

Anyone having questions should contact the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks District Office serving their county.

Desoto and Tunica counties call District Two at 563-6330. District Three includes Coahoma, Bolivar, Washington and Issaquena counties, call 748-2990. Warren, Adams, Claiborne, Jefferson and Wilkinson counties are in District Five at 835-3050.

Motocross Series to begin

The Gulf Coast Motocross Series kicks off at the Harrison County Fairgrounds. It is AMA-sanctioned motorcycle racing with classes including youth, amateur and semi-pro.

Round one of the series will begin Apr. 18, 19 and 20.

Other stops on the series will include Covington, Mobile and Pascagoula with the final race returning to the Harrison County Fairgrounds.

For information, call Southern Sports Promotions at 255-8110.

Get boat ready for spring

Be sure to begin your boating season with commissioning chores that can make the rest of the season more enjoyable and safer, advises 500,000-member BOAT/US (Boat Owners Association of the United States), the nation's largest organization of recreational boaters.

Make sure you have a wearable life jacket in good condition for each passenger.

Thru-hull fittings below water line should be tight; sea valves should operate freely.

Inspect non-metallic thru-hulls. They get brittle with age and winter ice can crack or loosen them. Look for hoses that have been forced off or split from freezing. Every spring boats sink at the dock when these problems go undetected until the first heavy rain.

Inspect fuel fittings and hoses. Replace if cracked or showing other signs of stress.

Get fresh batteries for portable electronic gear — radio, head and GPS, flashlight. Check lights on the boat and trailer. Inspect trailer tires for wear and inflate properly. Check the trailer frame for rust spots; inspect the wheel bearings and repack if necessary.

Sailboat owners: check the rigging for signs of corrosion and wear, and for leaks where chainplate mountings come through the deck.

Check expiration dates on flares and fire extinguishers; replenish the first-aid kit.

Creamy brown or gray engine or drive oil has water in it and a mechanic should find the source of the leak before you start the engine.

Inspect dock and anchor lines for chafing; replace deteriorated ones.

Ducks Unlimited convention

Mississippi Ducks Unlimited chairman Jack Moss has issued a special invitation for Gulf Coast members of the non-profit organization to attend the state convention in Tunica County April 18-19 at the Sam's Town Hotel and Gambling Hall in Robinsonville, Miss. in Tunica County.

Moss, a Raymond attorney, believes Coast residents will be interested to see how the gaming industry in the northern part of the state compares.

"We've had some very successful meetings in Rosedale, Clarksdale, Tunica and Robinsonville," Moss said.

"People from the Coast have been very interested in what the Tunica area has to offer compared with other gaming areas in Mississippi.

"We hope that Coast residents will take the opportunity to see what the north Mississippi area has to offer.

More than 10,000 Mississippians belong to the non-profit organization dedicated to developing and maintaining waterfowl.

Registration is $75 per DU member and $25 for spouse/date; if bought separately, Saturday night banquet tickets are $40 and $60 per couple.

For information, call Gail Adams Brown, 601-837-2826 or John Peeples, 601-320-9746.

To make hotel reservations, call Sam's Town at 1-800-456-0711.

Information about Mississippi Ducks Unlimited is available on the Internet: (<http://www.proteus-systems.com/ducks/ducks.html>).

Last year, the organization raised $960,000 in Mississippi for waterfowl habitat.

Water safety classes

The District Six office of the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks has released the schedule of boat and water safety classes to be held throughout the district.

All classes are available at no charge for anyone desiring to increase knowledge of boat and water safety.

These classes meet new state requirements for persons born after June 30, 1980 and operating a motorboat in Mississippi. The new regulations become effective July 1, 1997.

All classes last six hours. Participants are required to attend the entire class and successfully pass a written examination.

To register for these classes, or to check for seating availability, contact the number given for that class.

For information, the new regulations, or the alternative home study boat and water safety course, contact the District Six field office of the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks at 1-800-670-9616.

Area classes are:

Pearl River County: April 26, 8 a.m.-noon, 1-3 p.m., Justice Court, Poplarville, 772-9024.

Hancock County: May 3, 9 a.m.-noon, 1-4 p.m., Buccaneer State Park, Waveland, 467-3822.

Harrison County: May 9, 1-7 p.m. Red Creek WMA Headquarters, 928-4296.

Harrison County: May 10, 1-7 p.m. Red Creek WMA Headquarters, 928-4296.

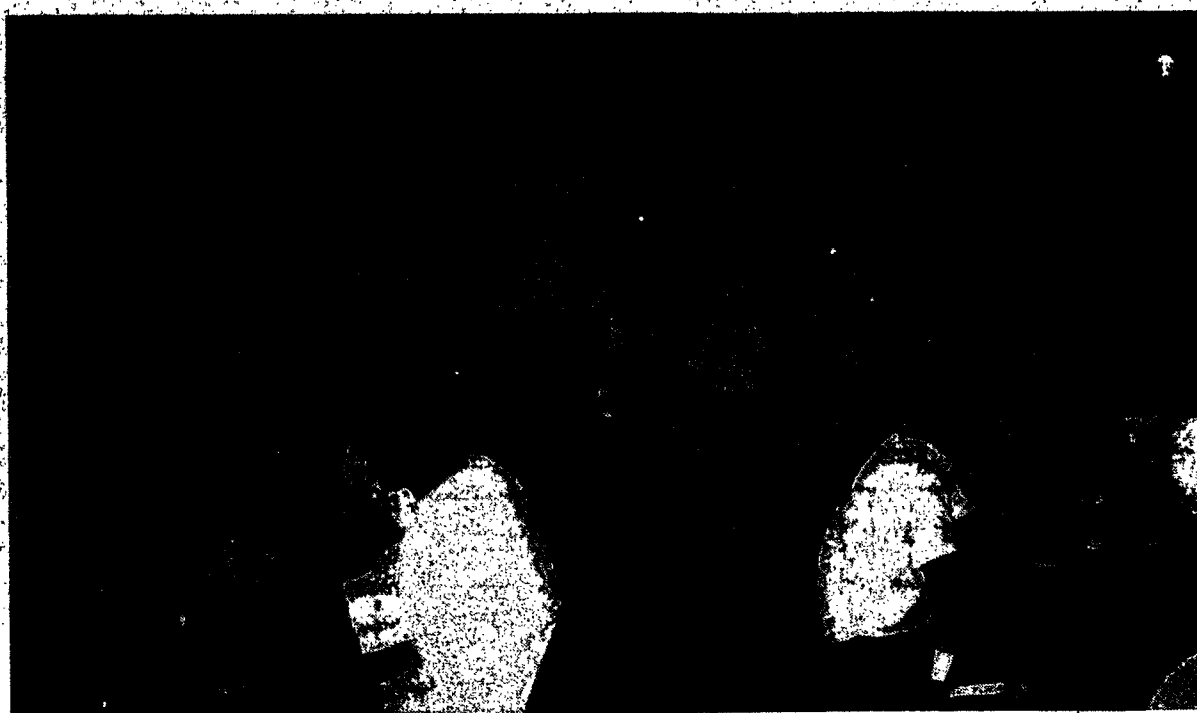

For more information, contact Lt. Scott Gordon at 1-800-281-4855.

Deep South Futbol Club Division I soccer meeting

An organizational meeting has been set for determining certain parameters for next year's 1997-98 Select soccer organization by the Deep South Division of Bay Area Youth Soccer.

All interested parents of both boys and girls who were born after July 31, 1987 are strongly encouraged to attend.

Mississippi Sportsfest

The 1997 State Games of Mississippi is only four months away and as the state's largest amateur sports festival for athletes of all ages and skill levels who want to experience the thrills of formal competition.

Due to continued growth, the State Games will split events into two weekends of competition for the first time in its history. The move to a two-weekend format should give athletes and spectators a better opportunity to participate in more than one sporting event.

The first weekend will be known as the "Inaugural Weekend" and is scheduled for June 21-22. The Inaugural Weekend will offer competition in adult basketball, canoe/kayak, cycling road race, mountain biking, men's soccer, adult softball, masters swimming and gymnastics.

Following the Inaugural Weekend will be the traditional "Festival Weekend" June 26-29. Sports offered during the Festival Weekend will be 3-D archery, baseball, high school basketball, bowling, judo, powerlifting, sailing, youth soccer, girls softball, stickball, tennis, track and field, 5K run and volleyball. Over the two weekend period a total of 22 sports will be held for Mississippi amateur athletes. Entry forms for the sixth annual State Games will be available March 25.

The opening ceremonies will be during the Festival Weekend Friday, June 27 at 7:30 p.m. at Ray Stadium in Meridian. All athletes, including those who compete during the Inaugural Weekend, will receive opening ceremonies tickets and are encouraged to participate in the Parade of Athletes. Tickets for the opening ceremonies will be $5 and may be purchased at the gate.

For information on competing or volunteering in the 197 State Games of Mississippi call (800) 482-0205 or (601) 482-0205.

IGNORE YOUR BACKACHE & SUFFER THE CONSEQUENCES.

Back pain, however insignificant it seems, is frequently the beginning of serious, painful problems. Problems such as pinched nerves, slipped disc, neuralgia, neuritis, (and sometimes arthritic type pains), tuberculosis and even paralysis.

The spine is a complex system of nerves, muscles, bones, ligaments and cartilage which are interconnected to control specific areas of the body. When the bones, or VERTEBRA are misaligned, they pinch the surrounding nerves, obstructing the flow of energy to other parts of the body. This often results in complications which can be severe and permanent.

Doctors of Chiropractic are experienced in treating patients with back pain. They can restore spinal vertebrae to their proper position, relieving pain and avoiding further serious complications.

When you have back pain, see Dr. Desmond W. Hoda.
